

Every man with intelligence enough to read the Barre Daily Times realizes, without any sermon from us, the dress requirements of the Easter season.

You'll find we've combined intelligence with good taste in the suits that we've gathered for your consideration.

After careful study of the fashion calendar and inspection of New York styles, and years of experience in catering to men, we feel that our showing is the best that has ever been pulled off in Barre.

BARRE DAILY TIMES en as help. There long has been a de mand that some industries be provided which would give employment to the girls and women of the community, and this industry, although working on a small basis as yet, gave promise of meeting that demand in part. It is to be hoped that under the new adjustment the business of the local branch of the New York concern may be increased from time to time and that more and more labor may be employed. There seems to be plenty of help available in Barre Mr. and Mrs. Alphonse Blanchard. for the development of a large industry along the lines of the present factory. People of Barre would like to see these industries multiplied.

Reason No. 7 - "Why we advertise National Bank Protection for your Savings"

Overdrafts

The Comptroller of the Currency has been waging a bitter war on the habit of allowing overdrafts.

The fact that many banks have allowed their depositors to drift into this careless and dangerous habit, a habit which is as detrimental to the best interests of the depositor as it is annoying to the bank, is ample justification for the Comptroller's uncompromising attitude.

The practice in itself is not only an unwarranted abuse of credit, but is virtually the wrongful conversion of another's property, as the money in the bank is the property of other people and should not be loaned to those who do not wish to give, in a formal way, an opportunity for the officials of the bank to pass such judgment upon their paper as prudence and banking fidelity demand.

There is quite a general feeling to-day that the banker who tolerates overdrafts indiscriminately is a weak executive and an irresponsible trustee.

In explanation, we wish to make it plain that it is a matter of principle with us and strict adherence as a rule of conduct helps us to maintain a similar degree of diligence in other matters of management which are of equal or greater importance to the protection of depositors. In our next advertisement we shall consider "Loans" and some of the restrictions imposed to make them safe.

A New Emergency

In many ways, it will be even more difficult to turn from War to Peace than it was two years ago to turn from Peace to War. We have a new emergency to face, one that demands our utmost efforts.

This institution, and that means each and every person connected with it, is pledged to a continuance of helpful service to commercial and industrial BARRE — the kind of service that we feel did its share in enabling our city to establish and maintain its proud record during war time.
